THE CANADIAN ZIONIST CONVENTION

Unless Ussishkin and Schmarya Levin present some special information before the Canadian Zionist Convention which is being held in Winnipeg this week-end, and evoke some unlooked for reactions, the convention will have no significance. It will be a routine performance. The handful of eastern delegates, and the crowd of westerners will exchange greetings; there will be the special services at the synagogues at which the guests will be made to feel as if they were being introduced to the Winnipeg Jewish God; the rite of registration carrying a savor of dignity and formalism; the strutting around of exalted officers; the inevitable presidential deliverance; the appointment of committees; a day of pent-up small-town oratory let loose in Yiddish and English Milt Grossian; luncheons and entertainments; a penultimate hour grinding of the resolution-mill; and the crowning glory—the nomination committee's report, anointing dignitaries for the ensuing term. The chairmanly gavel will then declare the deliberations at an end; and the delegates will proceed to figure out reports which they would have to submit if there were any constituencies willing to receive reports.

We have attended a number of Zionist conventions. Ostensibly they were gatherings of people devoted to an ideal convened to deal with problems relating to their ideal. At times we were naive and expected much from them. We visualized the conventions as being confluences of the purposes and longings of a multitude of individuals, all tending towards a common goal, merging here in a vast stream of idealism and resolve. Thoughts and aspirations that smoulder under the heaps of ashes that cover the life of the Jewish masses were to flare up into flashes of ideas that were to illumine our course and warm our hearts. Naturally we soon dispelled such notions. Only on rare moments when Schmarya Levin wove the charm of his oratory around the audiences did the gatherings appear to be lifted up to a higher plane of devotional fervor. For the most part the conventions were as uninspired and dull as synagogue and lodge meetings. And why should we expect so much from the Moses' and the Jacobs and the Solomons who compose the bulk of our citizenry? They are good folks They thrive in the shelter of their cloak shops, and their junkyards, and love their pinochle games and their families, and their Bnai Brith and Masonic meetings, and they are well-intentioned towards Zionism. Why ask them to be dreamers or crusaders?

There is prevalent the notion that Zionism has passed the idealizing and doctrinizing stage and has entered upon an era of practical work in Palestine. And this conception of Zionism has its corollary in the idea that Zionist conventions have to be nothing more than business meetings dealing with statistics and schedules and balance sheets.

It would be interesting to see a Zionist convention carrying out the idea that it was to be strictly a business conference. The Hatikvah would, of course, be taboo. Copies of the "American Magazine" and "System" would be distributed among the delegates as propaganda literature, and instead of Schmarya Levin, a big ledger-posting machine would be the chief attraction. There would be no speeches, no mention of culture, no inspiration, no love.

ANTI-SEMITISM IN HOSPITALS

BY RABBI FERDINAND M. ISSERMAN

The hazing of three Jewish internes in the King's County Hospital of Brooklyn, a few weeks ago, and the subsequent investigation by Mayor Walker, of New York, has brought to light a situation of bigotry, prejudice and a breach of professional ethics, which would be shocking anywhere and which is outraging in a public institution. It appears that for a number of years a virulent spirit of anti-Semitism has existed among the physicians and nurses of the hospital, which found expression not only against Jewish internes, but even was permitted to affect Jewish patients. Several cases of inadequate treatment to Jewish sufferers have been established.

On June 20 three Jewish internes, the only Jewish internes at the King's County Hospital, were brutally maltreated by six of their fellow internes. They were subjected to this hazing with the hope that they would abandon their work at the hospital. An investigation instituted by Mayor Walker has revealed that the hazing incident was but one in a carefully planned anti-Semitic campaign at that hospital. Jewish internes were not wanted there and those who were appointed were annoyed. For nine years not one Jewish interne served in that hospital, and that a hospital of a city one-third of whose population is Jewish and many of whose most eminent physicians are Jewish.

Those Jewish physicians who managed to be appointed as internes were constantly subjected to annoyances and social ostracism. Jewish internes were not permitted to use the tennis courts. They were compelled to eat at separate tables. With impunity nurses refused to obey their orders. They were appointed to none of the advanced positions in the institution. Though the hazing is most deplorable, it has been a great boon, because the investigation to which it has led has exposed a rotten state of affairs at the hospital, which I fear is duplicated elsewhere, and which I hope will speedily be remedied.

In the field of medicine the Jew has long been a leader. He it was who learnt it from the Arab and carried it to medieval Europe. Though church councils frequently decreed that Christians were not to submit to medical treatments from Jewish physicians, the very Popes who signed these decree employed Jews as their physicians. Paul de Kruif has recently published a remarkable book "Microbe Hunters," in which he most fascinatingly tells the story of the twelve greatest medical discoveries since the invention of the microscope. Of these twelve, three were Jews, the greatest among them being Ehrlich who made syphillis a curable disease. It is a curious phenomenon that this very eminence of Jews for medicine has made for discrimination against Jewish physicians. The anti-Semitism against Jewish physicians which is not a phenomenon limited to New York. is due almost entirely to professional jealousy.

Though Toronto has 40,000 Jews, who constitute about one-fourteenth of the population, and though the University of Toronto has had among its most brilliant graduates Jewish students, it is practically impossible for a Jewish student to serve an interneship in

ZIONIST NEWS

An increase of one hundred per cent. in Canada's contribution to Palestinian activities is shown by the figures of the financial report to be submitted to the twenty-first Zionist convention at Winnipeg, July 10, 11 and 12. At the last Zionist convention in Montreal, January, 1926, the financial report showed that during a period of twenty-four months, the net remittance to Palestine was $186,903.42, making a monthly average of $7,787.64. The figures for this fiscal year are from December, 1925, to June, 1926, the net remittance to Palestine per month was $10,378.97. For the last eleven months of the fiscal year, from July 1, 1926, to June 7, 1927, the remittance per month was $14,314.44. A pre-convention conference has been called by Montreal Zionists to be held at the Zionist Institute, 226 Sherbrooke Street West, July 4. Louis Fitch, K.C., vice-president of the Zionist Organization of Canada, will be chairman; Rabbi Julius Berger, vice-chairman, and Mrs. Louis Miller, vice-chairman for Montreal Hadassah. Delegates will be elected for the convention in Winnipeg. Sessions will be held Monday, beginning at 3 p.m. and at 8 p.m. The agenda for the conference includes discussion of Jewish National Fund work. Rabbi J. L. Zlotnik, executive director of the Zionist Organization of Canada, has returned from a seven weeks' tour of Western Canada, on behalf of the Keren Hayesod (the Palestine Foundation Fund). Rabbi Zlotnik visited twenty Jewish communities and reported that the West had responded generously to the Keren Hayesod and was eager to hear of the progress made in the rebuilding of Palestine as a Jewish National home. Rabbi Solomon Frank, of Shaarey Zedek Synagogue, Winnipeg, assisted Rabbi Zlotnik and spoke for the Keren Hayesod at Saskatoon, Edmonton, Vancouver and Victoria. Hadassah convention official opening Sunday morning, to be followed by a banquet at the Royal Alexandra Hotel, when M. M. Ussiachkin, director of the Jewish National Fund in Palestine, Dr. Schmarya Levin, noted Jewish orator and Zionist leader, Louis Lipsky, president of the Zionist Organization of America, and A. J. Freiman, president of the Zionist Organization of Canada, will be among the speakers.

It has been said often that many immigrants to Canada regard this country merely as a short cut to the United States but the truth remains that there are tens of thousands of Canadian-born Jews who could go to the States to live but who prefer life here. While the chief lure of the States is that of material achievement, Canada, as she celebrates her jubilee of federation, can show other achievements which make this country the most desirable as a place for comfortable living.

The sixtieth birthday of the Dominion finds a population of about ten million; a foreign trade of almost two and a half billions; less unemployment than for several years; national railways showing an operating profit; reduction of taxation. Of course, the United States, rolling in wealth, need not be envious of these things. But Canada, more of a frontier country, with a varied population and about the same proportion of British stock (fifty-five per cent.) and also being a young country, is not lawless. Several months ago a young negro was sentenced to death for the rape of a woman eighty years old, sentenced by due process of law. Later he was declared insane and will be confined for the rest of his life. He was not lynched during a hot wave of mob hysteria. Such an example of accustomed orderliness and tolerance is enough to command the admiration of thinking people in the violent States and excite their envy, too.

Canada's record for law observance approaches that of England and Scandinavia. Murder is swiftly punished as in England yet death sentences for the entire Dominion average only twenty-five per year. The homicide rate for Canada between 1911 and 1921 was 7.2 per 100,000 population; that of Ontario and Quebec for the same was 0.5. Canada has little public corruption compared with that in the States where even such an epidemic of it as the Harding administration revealed is accepted apathetically as nothing new to get stirred up about. Even religious and racial tolerance is better established in Canada than in the States. Much conjecture is going on now across the border as to what will happen if Al Smith, present Governor of New York and a Catholic, is nominated for the presidency by the Democratic Party. In Canada, Sir Wilfred Laurier, a Catholic, was Premier for fifteen years, a longer continuous term than was ever served by any other man.

In Canada a satisfactory solution of the liquor question seems to have been found, personal liberty is respected, revenue is furnished for Dominion and Provincial governments. Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia are dry and so Canada is ninety-three per cent. wet. The three million people in Ontario who voted in 1919 to try prohibition are of the same speech, conditions of life, of the same traditions as the people across the imaginary line south. In 1921, it remained wet by a smaller majority and three years later when it went slightly wet the law was changed accordingly. Recently it went wet by a larger majority, so prohibition has since been modified to conform to the vote. The will of the majority is law.

In the States a majority in New York, a majority in twenty or thirty States is powerless to repeal the law. Local and state liberty on the prohibition question is dead. Millions of people openly flaunt the prohibition law and the majority hate it and moderate men can't believe their eyes at the ruin this bad law has caused and yet a tiny majority holds the power to release the nation from it. The Anti-Saloon League maintains that a majority in one branch of the Legislature in thirteen States vetoes forever the will of all the other people in all the other States. It says that the Volstead Act itself cannot be modified, while a majority of a quorum in thirteen legislative bodies of ninety-eight (two for each state and the two Houses of Congress) is in favour of the present Federal prohibition.

This is not democratic government. Democracy is just to the north where Canada celebrates her sixtieth birthday. Ironically, the descendants of those Loyalists who came here from across the line have established more democracy here than has been produced finally in the Republic. And nothing illustrates better than the Canadian and American treatment of the liquor question that the United States is a country where much liberty has been lost and Canada a country where freedom lives in peace. To the self-complacent stare of the Americans, Canada can hold up the concrete workings of true democracy, of the very self-government Americans have bragged about for over a century. This freedom deserves the reverence of all Canadian citizens, especially the new. f.f.c.

a Toronto hospital. Those medical students who want experience in addition to their college course must go for that experience in the States or in England. The Toronto General Hospital has no Jewish internes, with the possible exception of one woman. It has no Jews on its staff. The Sick Children's Hospital, a large proportion of whose patients are Jewish, has not one Jewish interne and has never had one. The Western Hospital has likewise no Jewish internes, though that institution has two Jews on its staff. As a result of this practical banishment from local hospitals, Jewish physicians have not had the opportunity to develop their talents freely. Is professional jealousy responsible for this, or is it religion—or rather irreligion?

The investigations of the King's County Hospital revealed that only three Jewish nurses were found among a staff of two hundred. In Toronto, it is absolutely impossible for a Jewish girl to follow the nursing profession. To our knowledge no Jewish girl has ever been admitted to a nurses' training school in Toronto. Such a state of affairs is not in accord with British justice and fair play.

Canada has just celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of its birth as a nation. In sixty years it has made great progress. We hope that this anniversary will challenge Canadians to continue the traditions of the Fathers of Confederation. Anti-Semitism, unfair treatment of Jews was not one of their traditions. It must be banished from Canadian life. It certainly must be banished from Canadian hospitals.

We would like to be serious about the Winnipeg convention. But we know that nothing will happen there that will have any bearing on Zionism.

Except for what Levin and Ussishkin may say there will be no discussions of any of the academic or theoretical phases of Zionism. Conditions have changed in every corner of life. A readjustment is needed in the very ideology of Zionism and in its relation to other factors in Jewdom. The Canadian Zionist convention will not have a word to say regarding these matters. Canadian Zionism is one of the foremost donors to Zionist funds. It has no voice in Zionist councils. It is not reckoned with. It will not have any contribution to make to the deliberations at the Zionist Congress which is to be held shortly. The situation in Palestine is assuredly a matter of grave practical importance. Will the convention be furnished with data and reports concerning the Palestine situation so that the members might judge intelligently as to what is going on there?

The Canadian organization presents a perplexing problem. We have fund-raising activity. The Keren Hayesod campaigns and collections have been fairly successful. The management is now more efficient and economical than it was prior to the last campaign. But the Federation has no constituent organizations (not counting Hadassah) to give it substance. There are very few societies in Canada. There is no definite membership. There is no nucleus to serve as a centre and source of expansion. Will the convention take cognizance of this deficiency and adopt some heroic measures to remedy the situation? Presumably the convention will be satisfied with the Zionist record during the past year—collections, economy—and simply let things run on as they did before. There does not promise to be even a semblance of an opposition to shake the convention out of its mood of sluggish self-complacency.

The Zionist experiment is now at a critical juncture. Weizmann's frantic effort to consummate the Agency in America is a gesture born out of despair. American Zionism—active and energetic as it has been—has not been able to measure up to the needs. Weizmann realized that a bold step was required to save the situation. It is not traitorous to reveal to the public the desperate plight in which the Zionist endeavour now finds itself. The state of affairs reflects no discredit on the Zionist leaders who have worked so heroically to achieve the Herculean task. It is well that the truth be known, and the Canadian Zionists should approach the problems of Zionism in an attitude of constructive concern.

Sault Ste. Marie

Isaac Rubenstein, aged sixty-three, of Sault Ste. Marie, was instantly killed Saturday morning on the highway near Point Anne, when the motor car he was driving in left the roadway and went into the ditch. Rubenstein was seated in the rear seat and his son, Dr. Rubenstein, was in the front seat with H. Endleman, of the Soo, who was driving. The party, who had left Toronto early Saturday morning, had arrived in Belleville and were unable to find a restaurant open and decided to go on to Kingston for breakfast. After leaving Belleville, according to the story of the son, Isaac Rubenstein was reading a newspaper and Dr. Rubenstein asked Endleman if he was tired. The latter said he was not and the doctor said he would try to get a few minutes' sleep. He was awakened by a pain in his wrist and found that the car had gone into the ditch and that his father was lying dead, covered with blood from a wound in his head. Endleman told the coroner, Dr. Boyce, at the inquest, which was held later in the day, that the sun shone on the front of the car and he was practically blinded. Both Endleman and Dr. Rubenstein escaped injury and the damage to the car was slight. The victim had buried his wife in Toronto the day before the accident and was going to Ottawa by way of Cornwall. Mrs. Rubenstein, who was Lena Cook, died at the age of fifty-eight.

Surviving are five sons and four daughters, William, of the Soo, Dr. Oliver and David, of Detroit; Dr. Jack, of Ottawa; Irving, of Buffalo; Mrs. Jacques Bolle, of Buenos Aires, Esther, R. N., of Los Angeles, Mrs A. D. Hart, of Toronto and Dorothy, R.N., of New York.

Try this Plan for a Week

GIVE your refrigerator all the ice it can hold for a week and see how much more work it will do for you. See how sweet the milk and butter will be, how fresh and crisp the vegetables and fruit, and how much better your other foods will keep.

You will know what real food luxury is when you know what it is to have all the ice you want when you want it. Enough ice to crisp vegetables for a salad, to make quick frozen desserts, to take care of the hundred and one uses that the clever housewife finds for ice.

Let us tell you how much ice you should take so that your refrigerator will never be less than half to two-thirds full. Remember that it can't do its work properly unless it is well iced.

NORTHERN ONTARIO CANADA

Northern Ontario, now open for settlement at fifty cents per acre contains millions of acres of the finest agricultural land in the world. Its resources in lumber, minerals, water, power, fish, game and scenery are immense. The land calls for men to cultivate it, and in return will give health, comfort and prosperity.

What settlers say of the soil, climate, farming and forest life, is told in a most attractive booklet issued under the direction of the Honourable John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario. Full instructions in regard to acquiring a title to these rich agricultural lands are also given.

For free copies write: G. A. ELLIOTT, Director of Colonization, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Ontario.

STUDENT BADLY HURT BY DIVING

Suffering from serious spinal injuries and what was feared to be a broken neck, sustained when he dived from the pier at Bronte into shallow water, Irving Hoffman, aged twenty, 263 Grace Street, University of Toronto medical student, was brought to the Western Hospital from Bronte late Monday night. Although his condition was critical he was said to have a chance of recovery. The accident occurred Sunday evening. Hoffman, with Harry Shalof, 105 Waverley Road, a fellow student, were about to go swimming and when in diving Hoffman struck the lake bottom so heavily as to become paralyzed and did not rise, Shalof went to his rescue and brought him to shore.
